Dear Chris,

Procurement Plan review: Clauses 8.42A and 8.42B of the Code

The system operator has completed its review of the Procurement Plan (gazetted 3rd May 2022) and does not intend to propose any changes.

The system operator's review determined that no amendments are required ahead of the upcoming ancillary services contract round in September 2023. We note that the previous Procurement Plan review resulted in significant amendments to the ancillary services contracts to remove technical requirements from the Procurement Plan to the contracts and to further develop those technical requirements within the contracts.

The system operator has not received any requests from participants or the Authority to amend the Procurement Plan since the last review. One participant requested some amendments to the specific testing requirements within its ancillary services contract, which were addressed with amendments to the contract.

We would be happy to discuss any elements of our Procurement Plan review at your convenience.

Yours sincerely,

David Katz
Market and Security of Supply Manager
