DELTA TEST HOUSE STATEMENT

LEGACY METERING GROUP LTD PROJECT 2

Delta have reviewed the test results and the order in which testing was undertaken on the meters reported in the project results for Statistical Sample Project 2. We can confirm that the order in which the results have been reported and assessed is the order in which the meter tests were carried out.

Delta has followed the standard process for the handling and testing of returned meters.

There has been no alteration in the order of the tests reported and analysed in comparison to the order in which the tests were undertaken.

I am confident that the assessment of the Project 2 results of the 100 meters is representative of the installed population and the certification remains valid.

DELTA TEST HOUSE STATEMENT

LEGACY METERING GROUP LTD PROJECT 2

I have reviewed the number of models of a specific type tested by the Delta Test Lab for Legacy Metering Group LTD's Project 2 comparing:

- (1) The number of types of models recovered from the field from the selected ICPs
- (2) The known spread of models in the networks, including phasing based on prior experience with other deployment and stat sample programmes.

I therefore remain confident that the sample used for Legacy Metering Group LTD's Project 2 does represent the population in terms of relevance in statistical distribution and in the principles of random sampling.

Hi Jonathon

elease

I've sent the final draft report to LMGL. Most of the findings remain the same apart from the annual inspection one.

I've determined certification is still invalid for both stat sampling projects and I'm still firmly of the view that three phase and single phase meters should be separated when testing by attributes.

I have an overall nagging concern, particularly with project 2. It appears that LMGL and Delta between them have taken a Rumpelstiltskin approach and are trying to spin straw into gold. I think there was sufficient information available to show that the sample of 100 did not represent the population and there is also sufficient information available to show that at least some and possibly all of the meters in this population should be replaced and not certified.

I would be very concerned if Delta conducted any further statistical sampling, because they have breached a number of clauses in the Code with these two projects and the breaches seem very obvious to me.

I believe they've also breached clause 10.41, shown below, but unfortunately they won't be audited again until August 2020. The reality is, 11 of 116 meters tested had errors over 2%. 7 of the 11 have a meter type of "unknown" even after Delta has handled the meter. In total, nine of the 116 have unknown meter types. Delta would be aware that certain meter types would never pass on their own and should not be included in the population.

Hi Alex,

FYI: Here is the detail of the statistical sampling. Of note is $\frac{s9(2)(a)}{a}$ graph (copied below) which shows the relative error for each of the 116 meters tested.

Anything over 4% error is considered 'bad', and I believe the standard allows LMGL to ignore 2 'bad' results. There were more than 2 'bad' results in the last 16 meters tested.

Also paras 33 and 43 both mean that once the sample size is determined and the sample selected, these meters become the sample. There is no provision for a subset of the sample to be used even if this subset exceeds the minimum sample size. Although the guidelines are not mandatory, if an ATH/MEP has used alternatives it is up to them to prove their procedure produces statistically significant results, and the entire process, including the outcome has statistical integrity.

Have taken a look through the statistical sampling guidelines for CAT1 meters and the sample selection process (18 – 30) talks about selecting a final meter sample, and the process for adding groups (say of 10) to the sample if additional samples are required.

I think it is clear that all of the 'final sample' need to be considered as part of the recertification process. If LMGL believe that the last 16 are some kind of statistical anomaly then they can arrange for a further statistical recertification of that population of meters.

Hi^{s9(2)(a)}

I think you are correct. LMGL have performed a sample and that sample was for 116 meters (I doubt these were being tested for other reasons), so has met the requirement to check at least the minimum sample size. I do not think it is appropriate to remove the 'last 16' as they were part of the sample.

Talso think you are correct that the ATH needs to take into account the high failure rate when looking at the certification of meters under this part, though Ron may have a more complete view of the ATH requirements.

if you need more information on this please let me know.

Hi Jonathon

I'm auditing LMGL as an MEP and I have some concerns about one of their statistical samples. The detail is shown below and I don't think the sample represents the population, therefore I intend to record non-compliance.

Am I being too harsh? Is it acceptable for the ATH to "turn a blind eye" to the other test results not considered to be part of the sample?

The other clause relevant to the ATH is 10.41, as shown below. I think this clause requires the ATH to take a broader view of this situation when it's obvious the sample has a high failure rate. ion Ar

Your thoughts would be much appreciated.

10.41 Requirements applying to ATHs

An ATH must, when carrying out activities under this Part,-

- only carry out activities for which it has been approved by the Authority; and (a)
- exercise a degree of skill, diligence, prudence, foresight, and economic (b) management, taking into account the technological complexity of the metering components and metering installations being tested-
 - (i) determined by reference to good industry practice; and

Audit observation

LMGL engaged the Delta ATH to conduct two statistical sampling projects. Project 1 was for 40,196 meters and Project 2 was for 20,942 meters. I checked the process and results to determine compliance. Audit commentary

Project 1 was conducted using the "relative light load" accuracy rather than actual light load accuracy. Clause 8.5 of AS/NZS 1284 13 allows this to occur and states the following:

"The accuracy at light load may be taken as either the measured value or the relative value. Relative light load accuracy is calculated as the measured accuracy at light load minus the measured accuracy at full load."

The justification for using relative light load accuracy is that light load errors have a lower impact on total measured kWh than the full load errors.

Project 1 achieved a 5-year certification period.

Project 2 was conducted using actual light load accuracy and a certification period of 7 years was applied. The Project 2 results do not fully comply with AS/NZS 1284.13. The required sample size is 100, but there were 116 meters tested. Only 100 results were considered. The graph below shows that the "cutoff" point of 100 excludes a high proportion of inaccurate meters. Clause 8.4 of AS/NZS 1284.13 requires the sample to be "randomly selected to be representative of the selected meter population." The graph below shows that the sample is not representative of the meter population.

Clause 16(1) of Schedule 10.7 allows the MEP to arrange for an ATH to conduct statistical sampling in accordance with AS/NZS 1284. The information provided above shows that the sample was not selected in accordance with AS/NZS 1284 because the it is not representative of the meter population

These compliance obligations were eventually met by LMGL through their stat sampling, at which point we were happy to change the responsible MEP party to LMGL...and subsequently did this. The failure, is that LMGL (no us I guess) worked out that LMGL were not authorised to recertify sites by sample where they were not the incumbent MEP.

Those in my view are the fact, you can check them with others if you like. But it really up to the EA to determine if 10.21(2) applies...Jonathan is just trying to cover his own decision making for making that call, but getting us to confirm that there was an administrative failure or similar. I just think he needs to be the party to determine that off that facts he already has.

As per your e-mail below clause 10.21(2) states:

(2) Despite subclause (1), if a person fails to become the metering equipment provider due solely to an administrative failure or similar reason, the Authority may determine the date that the person becomes the metering equipment provider.

From time to time we are audited on the application of delegations (decisions made under the Code). This is done to help ensure that we are only making decisions when the criteria for making that decision are met.

To make it clear to any auditor looking at this decision in the future that clause 10.21(2) applies can you please confirm.

- Did the failure to nominate LMGL as the MEP on the registry occur solely due to an 'administrative failure'?
- 2. Which organisation was responsible for the 'administrative failure'?
- monnationA What date would LMGL have become the MEP, if the error had not occurred?

Thank you for your help in this matter.

Hi Alex

The purpose of this email is to follow up on our telephone conversations in relation to LMGL's stat sampling that included meter's where they were not recorded as the MEP on the registry yet they were the owners of the meters. It is our understanding that as a result of them including such meters that the EA has initially determined that all their compliance work involving these meters could be invalid.

As discussed, it is our belief that the code allows for the Authority to use discretion in scenarios such as has arisen on this occasion. It seems clear that LMGL owned the meters at the time of the stat sampling and that they had taken responsibility as MEP, simply the registry administration had not been completed.

Therefore we believe that clause 10.21 (2) can be enacted by the Authority;

(2) Despite subclause (1), if a person fails to become the metering equipment provider due solely to an administrative failure or similar reason, the Authority may determine the date that the person becomes the metering equipment provider.

We ask for the Authority to use this clause to determine the date that LMGL became the MEP so that the meters in question can be validly included in the stat sampling undertaken by LMGL.

Thank you for your consideration in this matter, we and LMGL await your decision.

Hi Alex,

Thanks for this. I think that we are in agreement that the Code is deficient and we are looking for a pragmatic solution for this situation.

However when can't ignore the Code when trying to find a solution.

I think we need to consider that:

Legally Contact Energy is the MEP

- The definition of MEP in the Act refers to the person who under the Code assumes responsibility or is appointed as the MEP – the key points here is the MEP is appointed or assumed responsibility under the Code
- 2. Clause 10.21 says that it is the party recorded in the registry that is the MEP.
- 3. Contact Energy has been appointed as the MEP and is recorded in the registry as the MEP
- 4. The Act does not allow participants (including the MEP) from contracting out of the obligations

Contractually LMGL wanted to be the MEP

- 1. Contact Energy sold the metering assets to LMGL
- Contact Energy contracted LMGL to become the MEP however this was being blocked by Trustpower who did not want LMGL to become the MEP at these sites at that time. The Code allows Trustpower to block the change of MEP
- 3. LMGL starting performing all MEP functions for these sites, (as an agent) on behalf of Contact Energy until they could become the MEP, including recertification via statistical sampling

To find a solution we need to work within the requirements of the Code and the Act. I can see 3 possible options, and there are likely more out there.

Option 1 – If Trustpower have made an administrative or similar error in MEP nomination

If Trustpower have made an administrative or similar error, and we can prove that this is the case then Grant / Rory have a delegation under clause 10.21(2) to ensure the registry is corrected and the correct MEP has responsibility: If a person fails to become a metering equipment provider for a metering installation due solely to an administrative failure or similar reason, the Authority may determine the date that the person becomes the metering equipment provider.

This would allow us to set the date that LMGL became the MEP, and this would make their sampling certification approach correct (as there is only one MEP)

Option 2 – If Trustpower have not made an error and did not agree to LMGL being the MEP

If Trusptower is correct and Contact Energy is the MEP then the Contact (MEP) and LMGL (MEP) populations need to be kept separate.

As there is no timeframe on certification, they can just split and extend the sample to meet the requirements for both Contact (MEP) and LMGL (MEP) meters to arrange for them to be recertified.

Option 3 – If Trustpower have not made an error and did not agree to LMGL being the MEP

If Trusptower is correct and Contact Energy is the MEP then the Contact (MEP) and LMGL (MEP) populations need to be kept separate.

As an alternative, LMGL can perform a 'fresh' statistical sample. This will enable LMGL to certify the meters with a fresh start date and consider the full population of meters they have now rather than only the historical population they were looking at 12 odd months ago.

In retrospect the suggestion regarding alternative use of AS/NZS 1284 is not required, as they can recertify the full population using statistical sampling anyway.

I am open to any solution that works within the framework of the Code (including exemptions and Code amendments), but am wary of any approach that would ignore the Code because the situation is not handled as effectively as we want by the current regulations.

Hi Jonathon

I had a discussion with LMG related to the Trustpower/Contact issue.

I disagree with your approach to the CTCT/LMG sampling issue and I think a more pragmatic approach would be better.

Fact is, that Trustpower said that if LMG would certify that they would accept LMG as the MEP. So Trustpower knew that LMG would meet Contact's obligation under the Code (LMG factually is the MEP) and recertify the meters. I think that Trustpower misused the Code wording/gap in the Code here and did not act in good faith. LMG is then in breach? And Contact cannot exit the MEP market? Hard to understand. We are punishing a participant trying to do the right thing, but is potentially breaching because Trustpower refused to accept them as the MEP (for no obvious reason) but at the same time was happy that LMG certifies the meters.

I think that in the context of this breach I have informed the Compliance Committee that I consider that the Code is deficient because it is not easy to exit the MEP market. (I can't find the case though).

Here are the screenshots from the Contact MEP audits 2017 and 2018. I think that LMG has a case that they were indeed the MEP not Contact, because they have taken on all rights (and obligations as the MEP). The transfer of all obligations was also disclosed as part of the investigation into Contact's interim certification breach.

Hi Alex,

As discussed we are having an ongoing discussion with Legacy Metering Group regarding their certification of Category 1 meters using statistical sampling. It is looking like LMGL think they are correct and we believe they are clearly wrong.

Here is my attempt at a '1-page' description of the issue to help foster informed discussion on what practices may be compliant with the Code.

Background:

Clause 16 of Schedule 10.7 says that an MEP can certify a group of CAT1 metering installations using statistical sampling using the process set out in AS/NZS 1284

AS/NZS 1284.13 is a standard specific to the testing and recertification of electricity metering populations using a statistical sampling process.

Paragraph 8.4 of AS/NZS 1284.13 requires meters to be randomly selected to be representative of the selected meter populations.

8.4 Selection of samples (Step 3)

Samples shall be randomly selected to be representative of the selected meter population.

Meters should be assessed for signs of tampering or damage. Meters that have been tampered with or damaged may be omitted from a population.

It is recommended that the number of meters selected should be 10% more than the required sample size to allow for the replacements if some meters are damaged.

Paragraph 7.4 of AS/NZS 1284.13 sets the sample size as the number set out in Table 2.

7.1.2 Sampling accuracy by variables

Each meter in a sample shall be tested for accuracy in accordance with Clause 8.4. Sample sizes and pass and fail levels shall be in accordance with Table 2 or in accordance with Legacy Metering Group had a population of between 10,001 and 35,000 metering installations. These were recertified using the 'by variables' option with the Table 2 sample size being 100. Legacy Metering Group tested 116 metering installations, and took the results of the first 100 meters returned.

Following AS/NZS 1284.13, taking the first 100 meters would result in the meters being certified for 7 years. Including the full 116 meters would result in the meters being certified for 2 years.

I do not believe taking the first 100 meters meets the requirement of paragraph 8.4 of AS/NZS 1284.13 as this is not random and does not represent the population. This is because:

- 1. Testing will be biased towards meters that are physically close (and thus able to be returned to the lab and tested first)
- 2. Types of meters tend to be 'clumped' by region, meaning that some types of meters may be missed if they take longer to return for testing
- 3. Testing is generally 'batched' so that similar meters are tested at the same time, so the first 100 meters tested are likely to be homogenous

Looking at the results of the 116 meters tested, it is clear that the top 100 meters were of two meter types, even though the population had more meter types. The remaining 16 meters were many different meter types, and performed significantly worse than the first 100. Statistically the first 100 results were unable to predict the next 16' results, suggesting that the sample is not representative of the population.

Question:

Based on the wording of the Code and AS/NZS 1284.13 can an MEP / ATH recertify (via statistical sampling) a group of metering installations by taking a sample greater than the sample size set out in AS/NZS 1284.13 and taking the
